Monroe Lad Wins State Health Toga

Ronnie Rivers Picked From 65

Ronnie Rivers of Monroe Township has been selected as Ohio's "healthiest" 4-H Club boy.

Rivers, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Rivers of Mt. Sterling Route 3, was chosen from a field of 68 other contestants Thursday during the 1951 Ohio State Fair.

The Monroe Township lad, member of the Future Farmers of Monroe Club, shared honors during the selection with Virginia Robinson, 17, of Hamilton Route 4, named as Ohio's "healthiest" 4-H girl.

As Ohio's 1951 health achievement award winners, Rivers and Miss Robinson will compete for national honors during the national 4-H Club congress in Chicago this year.

It was discovered in time to avert possible disaster and Trojanowski was rushed to the scene to deactivate it.

CONSEQUENCES COSTLY

Johnson Asks For Changes In New Controls Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Economic Stabilizer Johnson said today that "disastrous" consequences may result at home and abroad if Congress refuses to change the present economic controls law.

Johnson, final witness in the Administration's drive for strengthened controls, told the Senate Banking Committee "that the new law has brought the stabilization program to a crisis."

The economic stabilizer concentrated his attack on three controversial provisions of the law passed last July 31 but indicated the Administration will seek other changes at a later date.

Johnson told the senators that "if the act stands as now written, the consequences will be costly. They could be disastrous—to our country, and to the whole Free World."

If the present law stands, Johnson said, prices, wages and rearmament costs will soar and the value of the dollar will drop—all "unnecessarily," He added:

"IT MEANS less food and clothing and poorer shelter—if it can be found—for great numbers of Americans on low fixed incomes. For them, it means hardship boarding on tragedy.

UN FORCES PREPARED

Red Leaders Stay Silent On Offer To Resume Talks

TOKYO, Aug. 31—Communist leaders failed today to give an official answer to an Allied offer to resume Korea peace talks but a UN spokesman said there was no evidence to indicate a permanent breakdown in the armistice parley.

Tension on the battle front mounted as the Reds remained officially silent on the offer which was put to them by General Ridgway at 9 a. m. Wednesday. More than 60 hours—two and a half days—had passed since the UN commander put the decision of war or peace in Korea into the hands of Red chieftains.

But an official UN spokesman was still guardedly optimistic

Tax Hike Bill Nears $6 Billion

Gambling Tax Is Considered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—The Senate tax-increase bill approached the $6 billion mark in new revenue today with the fat gambling and other excise proposals still to be considered.

Members of the Senate Finance Committee approved most of the House excise tax increases without change, their action promising additional revenue of one billion 45 million dollars. The increases would expire Dec. 31, 1953.

Another 407 million dollars would be raised if the senators—and the senate—accept the House proposals taxing wagers other than pari-mutuel bets and those who accept such bets, and raising the tax on various slot machines.

Taxes already approved by the senate group would raise about $5 billion $900 million in new revenue, as against the total of 7.2 billions provided in the overall House bill.

Excises on alcoholic beverages, tobacco, and manufactured goods were covered mainly in the opening action in this field.

THE SENATORS voted to eliminate the 10 percent tax on electric razors but placed vacuum cleaners, washing machines and garbage disposal units under this levy. The latter were not covered by the House bill.

The other major changes in the House excises affected only two items. The Finance Committee cut the tax on fountain and ball-point pens and mechanical pencils from 20 to 10 percent for a revenue loss of about 12 million dollars. It reduced the tax on plug and twist tobacco from 18 to 10 cents a pound.

The committee also approved House excise boosts which would record these increases:

Liquor, beer and wine, plus licensing fees, to raise an additional 252 million dollars; cigarettes, from 7 to 8 cents a pack, for 177 millions in new revenue; gasoline and diesel fuel, from 1 1/2 cents to 2 cents a gallon, 220 million dollars; passenger automobiles and motorcycles, 7 to 10 percent, 196 millions;

Trucks, buses and truck trailers, and auto parts and accessories, from 5 to 8 percent, 117 millions; "home-type" appliances, including electric ranges, dishwashers, clothes driers, floor polishers and waxes, lawn mowers, hedge clippers, belt-driven fans, dehumidifiers, door bell chimes, food choppers or meat grinders, ice-cream freezers, motion picture and slide projectors, pants pressers and electric sheets and spreads, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and garbage disposals, 10 percent, to raise a total of 74 millions.

The committee kept the sporting goods tax at 10 percent, instead of the house 15 percent, but extended the present school exemption to private and parochial schools as well as public.

CONTINUOUS RADIATION is exercised upon plants in an experiment at Brookhaven, N. Y., National Laboratory, where scientists hope to improve strains of corn and vegetables. The iron pipe in the hub of the wheel contains 200 curies of cobalt, giving off gamma radiation. Plants in the wedge-shaped trays get maximum effect, while those growing in widely extending circular rows are less exposed.

'LASTING DAMAGE' WARNED

Big City Crime In Small Towns Revealed In Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—The Senate Crime Committee closed shop today with a declaration that big-city style crime exists on "Main Streets throughout America" and a warning that the dope traffic threatens "lasting damage" to the nation's youth.

The committee's final report painted a grim picture of its findings during the past two months in these two fields—the expansion of crime in medium-sized cities with resulting official and political corruption, and the growing increase of the use of dope among teen-agers.

It recommended local crime commissions in every city, aided by a national crime coordinating council, to cope with the local crime problem and a broad anti-drug drive from the United Nations on down to stifle the thriving dope trade.

The 103-page report was released just 10 hours before the committee was to go out of existence, but it recommended that its crime probing activities be continued by the Senate Commerce Committee.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the report were:

1. A long examination of the career of Abner "Longie" Zwillman, "the fabulous bootlegger," with comment on his "great influence in important government circles" and his extensive business holdings.

2. Caustic comment on the "refusal" of Florida's Governor Fuller Warren, whose name "cropped up frequently in questionable connections" during the hearings, and the charge that gambling is flourishing in Florida.

City and county offices also will be closed Monday, while Circleville Postoffice and Library workers will join in the holiday.

Employees of The Circleville Herald will join with the rest of the city in enjoying the holiday. The Herald will not publish Monday.

Many industries in the city also plan to close down production Saturday or Sunday so that their employees may benefit from the holiday.

Practically the only persons working on the national holiday here will be those connected with entertainment and amusements.

Iran Opposition Move Strengthens

LONDON, Aug. 31—The London Daily Telegraph said today that an opposition move to unseat Iranian Premier Mohammad Mossadegh and negotiate a settlement of the oil nationalization dispute is gaining strength.

The Telegraph, in a Tehran dispatch, said the power behind the movement is former Premier Seyyid Taba Tabai, a bitter foe of Soviet influence in Iran.

A hope that Mossadegh would be replaced by a more "reasonable" premier has played a part in Britain's determination to "sit tight" in the dispute arising from the nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Property Comprises 435 Acres

Detailed Plans Not Ready Yet

Circleville eventually may have a new industry to point to with pride.

Officials of Du Pont Company of Wilmington, Del., Friday announced that options have been taken on a 435-acre site immediately south of the city.

Harold Brayman, Du Pont public relations director, said: "The land is being purchased for use in the company's regular commercial business. However, plans have not been sufficiently developed to announce either the type or size of operation that may be located there."

"The site is located in a general farming area about two miles south of Circleville and consists of two adjoining farms. It is on U. S. Highway 23 and the Scioto River."

"ONE PLOT, of 160 acres, is owned by Miriam R. Adkins (Mrs. Paul Adkins). The other, of 275 acres, is owned by Pickaway Farms. The site is bounded on the north by the Pickaway-Circleville Township line, on the east by Highway 23, on the west by the Scioto River, and on the south by a line extending from the old Township-Westfall Road to the river."

Pickaway Farms, formerly the Walt Goodman farm, recently was purchased by Ward Walton of Upper Sandusky. Du Pont is buying the land from Walton.

Brayman said the owners are being formally notified that the company is exercising the options. It will probably take about a month to wind up details of the transaction and make the actual purchase.

Rumors have been rife on the deal here for many weeks. It is not the first time Du Pont has taken options on Pickaway County land, but is the first time such options have been exercised. Twice before—each time prior to World War II—the big chemical company eyed acreage in this vicinity, but each time declined to take up the options.

JUST WHAT the proposed Du Pont plant will produce, how large the industry will be or how many jobs it will offer are not known.

Brayman's formal announcement indicated that Du Pont itself was fully decided in that respect.

While Du Pont is noted for producing a thousand and one articles—from gun powder to nylon—it appears from Brayman's announcement that the local plant probably will not produce an article akin to war munitions.

The announcement refers to "regular commercial business," thus leaving the immediate impression that gun powder or atomic energy products will not be manufactured here.

To provide readers with background information on the company, The Circleville Herald has obtained special permission from Time magazine and Reader's Digest to reprint the following article, "The Wizards of Wilmington:"

In Augusta, Ga., last April, an invading army of engineers and builders of the Du Pont Company jammed the city's hotels and spare rooms to the rafters. Across the Savannah River in South Carolina, hundreds of aluminum trailers winked among the pecan groves. Giant bulldozers ripped through slash pine and red clay, pushing a four-lane express highway to Ellenton, Ga., population 700, soon to disappear before the bulldozers' onrush.

Target of this invading army is just beyond Ellenton: a 200,000-acre site for the Government's $600,000,000 hydrogen-bomb plant scheduled for completion in 1953.

Du Pont took the H-bomb job with reluctance. Ever since a U.S. Senate committee investigated the munitions industry in 1934, Du Pont has sought to avoid

Test Pilot Flies Navy Plane To New Altitude

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31—A piloted Navy Skyrocket plane has climbed to the all-time record altitude of approximately 78,000 feet—or almost 15 miles.

The plane at the same time attained a top speed estimated at an incredible 1,300 miles per hour.

News of the flight by veteran Douglas Test Pilot Bill Bridgeman was released last night by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

The altitude reached was more than a mile higher than the officially recognized world record of 72,395 feet reached by the two Army balloonists, Capt. Albert W. Stevens and Orville A. Anderson, in 1935.

Bridgeman's epoch-making flight was made on Aug. 15 from Mojave Dry Lake, Great Mojave Desert air base and test center.

His craft was a needle-nosed little Douglas rocket ship officially designated the D-558-2.

Jap Treaty Group Leaves For U.S.

TOKYO, Aug. 31 — Premier Shigeru Yoshida and the Japanese delegation to the San Francisco peace treaty signing took off today from Tokyo in their trans-Pacific flight amid the cheers of 5,000 flag-waving spectators.

As the PanAmerican strato-cruiser carrying the Yoshida party to the historic ceremony lifted its wheels from Haneda airport at 5:10 p. m. an escort of 12 American Sabrejets and four F-51 Mustangs roared over the field.

Almost every foreign diplomatic mission in Tokyo was represented at the farewell to Yoshida—except the Russians.

Circleville retail businesses will close at their regular times Saturday night and remain idle until Tuesday morning.

However, the retail stores will remain open Wednesday afternoon following the holiday from work. The regular Wednesday noon closing will not be observed next week.

City and county offices also will be closed Monday, while Circleville Postoffice and Library workers will join in the holiday.

Employees of The Circleville Herald will join with the rest of the city in enjoying the holiday. The Herald will not publish Monday.

Many industries in the city also plan to close down production Saturday or Sunday so that their employees may benefit from the holiday.

Armed Bandits Hold Up Filling Station Attendant

Two armed bandits held up a filling station attendant in Circleville early Friday and made off with more than $100 in cash.

Everett Brooks, 19, attendant at the Spur filling station on West Main street, told police he was confronted by two armed men and robbed of $104.94.

Brooks said he was sitting inside the filling station office at about 5 a. m. Friday when he heard oil drums at the rear of the station being rattled.

Venturing behind the station to investigate the noises, Brooks said he was confronted by two men brandishing revolvers.

The attendant forked over the cash he was carrying, along with a metal change-maker attached to his belt.

Firemen Battle 1,000 Ton Straw Rick Fire Here

Firemen and plant employees late Friday continued to battle a blaze in a huge straw rick at Circleville Container Corp.

The huge rick, estimated to contain more than 1,000 tons of baled straw, was discovered burning at about 2 a. m. Friday by watchmen of the Container plant.

Circleville firemen and the plant's fire-fighting organization joined forces to control the blaze and keep it from spreading into two nearby ricks.

The huge rick, reportedly made up of about 40,000 bales of straw, was located just north of the plant's main ricking area. The fire was first spotted on the east side of the rick.

More than 3,000 feet of fire hose was laid out to combat the intensely hot flames and nine hoses were in use throughout early morning to keep the fire under control.

FIRE CHIEF Talmer Wise said cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

A huge Repligle crane was enroute to Circleville from Lancaster Friday to be used in tearing the smoldering mass of straw apart so that firemen might completely extinguish the flames.

Wise said that he probably would be able to determine the cause of the fire when the crane begins its work.

Cost of the fire was not estimated by officials of the plant, although unofficial estimates listed the loss at several thousand dollars.

Some of the straw is expected to be reclaimed by the plant for use in its production of paper, although a great amount is useless.

French Miller Admits Using Rye For Wheat

PARIS, Aug. 31—The Paris newspaper, France Soir, said today that a miller admitted under police questioning that he adulterated the flour which caused four deaths in Pont-St. Esprit and drove other villagers mad.

The newspaper, in a story datelined Poitiers, said that Maurice Maillet, a miller of St. Martin La Riviere, admitted substituting a poor quality of rye for wheat in the flour which was distributed in the area.

The flour was shown by chemical analysis to contain ergot, a cereal fungus.

Bread made from the flour caused hundreds of persons in Pont-St. Esprit to be stricken with the malady in varying degrees of seriousness.

Missing Girl Probe Continues

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31—Cleveland detectives plan to question some 40 grade school children today to find out what they know about the week-long disappearance of 10-year-old Beverly Potts.

Two detectives and authorities at Louis Agassiz elementary school compiled a list of fourth grade classmates who went to school with the missing girl.

"Maybe one of these girls and boys can tell something we don't know, something that didn't turn up, possibly because it seemed so trivial," said Detective Inspector James E. McArthur.

The chief of detectives, however, said he was completely baffled. Since the blonde, blue-eyed youngster disappeared from a west side playground last Friday night not one valid clue has been found.

Man Owes Life To Pair Of Dogs

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—A Chicago watchman owed his life to a pair of friends named Tom and Jerry who summoned help by telephone yesterday when he suffered a heart attack.

A telephone operator heard the message and sent police and an inhalator squad to Fried's furniture store where Bohumil Paisker slumped to the floor.

Tom and Jerry—a pair of dachshunds—barked into the phone this morning after either Paisker or they knocked it off the hook. Mrs. H. Carl, a telephone supervisor, notified officers to investigate.

Senate Passage Of Foreign Aid Bill Expected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—The Senate expects to pass late today a bill authorizing about $7.5 billion for foreign aid to speed rearmament of the Free World against Communism.

The Administration is understood to be anxious to have the bill approved before the Japanese Peace Conference opens in San Francisco Tuesday.

The Senate meets at 10 a. m.—two hours earlier than usual—and operates under an agreement limiting debate on a stack of amendments which are in the offing.

The agreement does not guarantee a final vote today but Senate Democratic Leader McFarland, Ariz., said he is confident that it will be reached though the final showdown may be delayed as late as 10 p. m.

During a late session last night, Sen. Morse (R) Ore., said he knew "as a fact we would not have control of the air in an all-out war with Russia."

MORSE, A member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, would not disclose the source of his information but said it came from "a high reliable" government official who told him that "we do not have control of the air today."

The GOP senator said the American people would "demand" an increase in foreign aid funds, not a decrease, if they "knew" about the present state of American defenses.

Sen. Knowland (R) Calif., warned that the month of September may decide whether "there is to be peace in the Pacific and the world."

District Court Gives Ruling

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Aug. 31—The Seventh District court of appeals has denied the Ohio Tax Commission the right to collect inheritance tax on National Service Life Insurance.

The court of appeals ruling against the tax commission upheld the previous decisions of the Belmont County probate court and common pleas court.

Socialite Steals $10,000 In Jewels From School Chum

MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 31—A $10,000 jewelry theft from a Long Island socialite has been pinned on her one-time school-mate and longtime friend, also a socialite.

Charged with grand larceny and released under $5,000 bond was Mrs. Ethel Carhart Jones Taylor of New Hyde Park, wife of a New Jersey airplane parts company executive and mother of two daughters.

Police said the 25-year-old blonde daughter of Warner L. Jones of Glen Head, N. Y., admitted "lifting" 14 pieces of gems belonging to Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Chew Welch of Syosset, N. Y.

Police were puzzled over why Mrs. Taylor stole the gems. They pointed out she apparently had everything one could desire. She, her husband and their two daughters—one aged three, the other a year old—live in a fashionable five-acre estate.

SHE DROVE a big car and her socialite husband whom she married in 1947, is a top-bracket executive in his firm.

Assistant Chief Inspector Stuyvesant A. Pinnell of Nassau County said Mrs. Taylor, the wife of John Stewart Taylor, told him she called on Mrs. Welch for tea and found her school chum out.

The young socialite was quoted as saying no one but the servants were home and she and took the jewelry from a went to Mrs. Welch's boudoir jewel case.

REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA?

REARMING of Germany, considered a prime essential in the defense of Western Europe, will face many difficulties, including active resistance by Communists in both the American and Russian zones of occupation.

Walter Ulbricht, head of the Communist party in Germany, has warned that any effort to rearm Germany will bring about a campaign of sabotage, widespread strikes and other disorders. A Germany restored to military strength is looked upon by Russia as its greatest potential enemy, and Moscow will do everything in its power to defeat the plan.

Meeting this challenge, the American Committee for the Liberation of the Peoples of Russia is meeting in Munich, attended by Russian emigres from all parts of the world. It is the grandiose purpose of the committee to overthrow the present regime in Moscow by whatever means can be devised.

This is the first organization to go on record as advocating subversive activity in the Soviet Union. It claims to have substantial contacts behind the iron curtain, where some underground forces already are active.

The committee, which maintains headquarters in New York, is presumed to have the support of this organization. Its efforts will supplement those of similar organizations active in the past and will meet those of Russia on its own ground of sabotage.

The whole purpose is to bring about revolution in Russia and the overthrow of the Stalin regime at the quickest and most effective way of ending the menace of Communism.

WHIPPED AGAIN

ECONOMY advocates in Congress are taking another shellacking in trying to whittle down the rivers and harbors appropriation bill. The Senate has passed a $638,478,000 bill, which is $124,000,000 more than the House bill made available. The recent Kansas-Missouri floods were responsible for the rout of the economy advocates.

But then the economy advocates in Congress always get whipped. The economy bloc is generally supposed to be of considerable size, but that is a misconception based upon talk rather than action. There is a lot of thundering in the index which the text of the book doesn't bear out.

Several real economy advocates are to be found in each party in Congress, but they are greatly outnumbered by those who haven't the guts to turn down a benefaction for the district in the interest of saving money.

The rivers and harbors bill is notoriously a logrolling project whereby most districts get something by helping other districts get theirs. By such a method the bill is packed with waste at the expense of legitimate projects.

The conclusion is inescapable that a ma-

These Days

While Soviet Russia will send a delegation to the San Francisco conference on the Japanese Treaty, India will boycott the conference. Russia will use sabotage as a weapon; India uses the boycott. Russia will speak long and loud; India will give the identical impression by silence.

Both countries have the same aim and purpose, namely, to seal off Asia from the United States, to close the entire continent of Asia, if they can manage it by diplomacy, intrigue, revolution or war, from European and American commerce, credits and friendship. The failure of the Hariman mission to Iran is part of this intrigue. The revolutionary movements in the Philippines, Burma and Malaya are phases of this program.

Nehru is a Socialist and has always publicly regarded himself as such. We know from Professor Karl A. Wittfogel's testimony before the McCarran Committee that in 1929 he attended a Russian-directed Communist conference at Frankfurt-Am-Main. Most of those who attended were then Communists, although we may assume that some were invited for the impression that such a conference would make on them. We know from this little file in a grand mosaic of intrigue that as early as 1929, Nehru had close relations with international Communism. From 1945 to this day, Nehru has in many official acts indicated that those relations still exist and are cordial.

Otto Friedman, in his book, "The Break-up of Czech Democracy," makes an interesting point which, while applied to Czechoslovakia, fits current India. He wrote:

"The philosophers of Czechoslovak democracy failed, because they believed that they would preserve the democracy and independence of their own country, whilst supporting, through their foreign policy and propaganda, the expansion of Soviet Communism in other countries. . ."

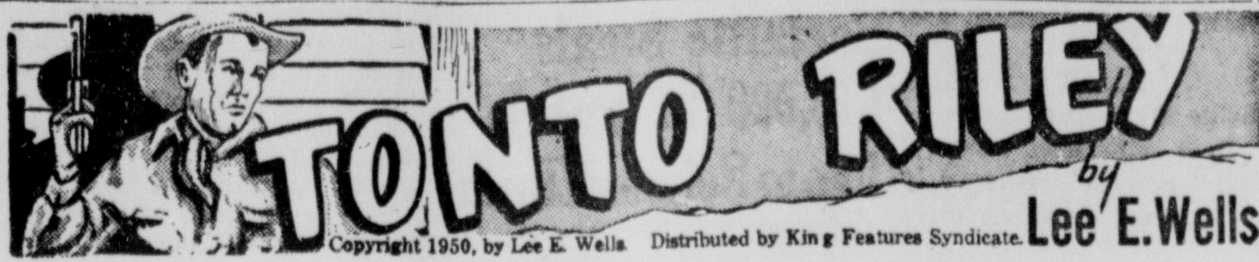

Precisely that has been Nehru's diplomacy. He has been trying to purchase the independence of his country from Soviet Russia by acting as Russia's agent in the conquest, by diplomacy, of other Asiatic countries. That game has brought no benefit anywhere in Europe; there is no reason to believe that it can succeed anywhere in Asia.

One reason that India, as many countries in Eastern Europe, fears Soviet Russia but does not fear America, is that since Tehran (1943), this country has appeased Russia. Therefore, countries which joined up with us, as Nationalist China and Iran did, could not know at what point the United States would desert its friends, for the sake of appeasement, as Chiang Kai-shek, as Singman Rhee, as the Shah of Persia have at times been deserted, even though eventually they may have been picked up again. Even our mixed and uncertain policy to Israel gives, to other countries, evidence of an undetermined policy, largely dominated by domestic considerations.

It is the opportunistic, day-by-day policy that our State Department has pursued since 1943 which gives cause to other nations to question the wisdom of risking their national existence on the exigencies of American activities in the international field.

majority of the people want big government spending and aren't irritated sufficiently by taxes to demand at least a higher purchasing power for their tax dollar. Until the people change their way of thinking, economy advocates will continue to whistle in a barrel.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

VIC ELLERS looked up at Tonto, face still cupped between his hands, elbows resting on the desk. He straightened.

"What in blazes brings you to town?"

"Seen Bart Overby?" Tonto said sharply. Vic looked toward the door as Tex appeared. His eyes narrowed.

"No, I ain't. Say, what in hell—" "I'm charging Overby with arson and murder, Vic. I aim to bring him in myself and I sure hope he resists arrest."

"Arson and murder?" Vic came bounding to his feet. He searched Tonto's grim face and then turned, seeking confirmation, to stare at Tex. The young puncher nodded, once. Vic plumped down in his chair with a groan. "You'd better tell me about it."

Tonto paced back and forth in the little space before the desk as he told what had happened at the Slash S. Vic listened with growing horror. At last he finished, paused before Vic's desk.

"There it is. I've been looking for him at the Golden and at his place. I didn't find him, but I reckon between the three of us we can. Any ideas?"

Vic asked, "What makes you so sure Bart Overby did the job?"

"What makes me sure?" Tonto jerked erect. "Why it's as plain as that desk!"

He outlined all that had happened and his reasoning that had led him directly to Bart Overby.

"Nothing wrong with your thinking, Tonto. I ain't got a word to say against it as far as it goes. You might be right, but you've got to have more than just thinking to support an arson and murder charge."

"But—" "Sure," Vic held up his hand.

partments to settle their differences over a long-range bill for the construction of new passenger ships. Senators understand the same letter went to Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer.

In his letter to Snyder the President said: "I should like to have this material (a report on how differences were settled) as soon as possible, but at least by March 1, 1951."

That, senators stress, was back in January. It was not until recently that the Commerce department and the budget people got together at the White House to talk about the bill. Treasury ignored the meeting.

● CAPITOL COLLECTORS—Washington visitors can find some rather interesting things on the office walls of senators and congressmen on Capitol Hill.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (R), Wisconsin, has framed citations which praise him for his fight against Communism. Senators Lyndon Johnson (D), Texas, and Kenneth McKellar (D), Tennessee, collect pictures of persons named after them. Rep. J. Percy Priest (D), Tennessee, the House whip, has pictures of home state youths who have been appointed to service academies under his guidance.

Pictures of Annie Oakley, Buffalo Bill, Gen. George Custer, as well as Chief Sitting Bull and other Indian leaders adorn the walls of Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R), North Dakota.

Vice President Alben Barkley collects political cartoons, with many poking fun at the Veep. Rep. Richard H. Velde (R), Illinois, has a miniature collection of products manufactured in his Peoria district.

● LOST AND FOUND—The gentleman from Illinois, Congressman Noah Mason, didn't want to take up the House's time unnecessarily, so he obtained permission to insert in the Congressional Record a short speech.

The next day, however, he arose in great indignation and protested that he had looked through the Record and to his amazement, discovered the speech had been left out. He lodged a vehement protest.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D), Texas, brought down the House, so to speak, by asking Mason: "Has the gentleman looked in his pockets?"

"It all fits neat and nice, and it comes right down to Overby. But your brand ain't as clear as you think it is. I can use every fact you've given me, arrange it all sidwampus and come up with another name—Ken Frick. What about him? Don't he fit as well as Bart Overby? Ain't he got reasons just as strong as Bart's? Or maybe it's someone else entirely. Now, do we arrest Overby or Frick—or go out hunting on a John Doe warrant?"

"Can you actually prove anything against anybody?"

Tonto stared at the lawman. "Now you can savvy why I didn't rush out and charge Bart with Rick Staples' murder. I think he did it, but I can't prove a blasted thing. Just like you can't prove Bart was at the Slash S tonight, or Ken Frick, or anyone else. That's all that counts in court, son."

"But it has to be—" "Tonto, get your brains rounded up! A man can go on trial for murder just once, can't he? You can't put a man in jeopardy twice. All right, you and me have the same problem. We accuse Bart of the killing and he goes to trial. The case is thrown out because we ain't got enough evidence and Bart is acquitted. Son, even if we find the proof of the killing afterwards and it pins everything right on Bart, it won't do us no good. He can't be tried again. So you wait, like I've been doing."

Tonto straightened and threw his arms wide in a gesture of surrender. Tex moved away from the door, found a chair in a corner and sank down into it.

"Things happen fast," he said, "and it looks like they're all connected. There was a murder in Avrillo tonight. Sid Harper found the body behind his woodshed less'n three hours ago."

Copyright, 1950, by Lee E. Wells. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

"Who?" Tonto said.

"Old Baldy. Someone choked the life out of him."

There were few details and Vic quickly covered them. Old Baldy had been around all day, cadging drinks. Early in the evening Vic himself had bought the old man a drink at the Golden, and a couple of hours later Sid Harper had firmly escorted Baldy out of his store. According to Sid, Baldy had mumbled in his whiskers for a few minutes out on the sidewalk and then shuffled off. That was the last anyone had seen him.

"Sid closed the store and went home. He went out to the shed to get some coal oil for his lamps and fell over Baldy's body. Sid come for me."

"Choked, you say?" Tonto said. "Bruise marks on his neck and all the other signs. I don't think the killing was done in Harper's yard, but somewhere else. The killer dumped the body at Harper's to confuse the trail. And he sure did a good job of it. Who'd want Baldy out of the way? The old man never harmed a fly."

Tonto had no answer for that one. Vic pulled himself up from behind the desk and looked at his watch.

"Lord, one o'clock! None of us are doing any good here. Me, I'm getting some rest. You'd better stay in town tomorrow, Tonto, seein' you're my deputy."

Tex snapped erect. "He's what?" "Deputy," Tonto answered for the lawman, "but we're not telling anybody about it."

They waited until Vic blew out the lamp and looked up the office. The three of them walked to the corner and Vic gave them a sleepy "Good night." He walked wearily off into the darkness. Tonto turned and led the way to the hotel.

The Soviet was a little late for the war in Japan but several days early for the treaty conference. . . however, this should not entitle them to the slogan "last in war, first in peace."

Delegates didn't say why they got to San Francisco early but there is some thought they wanted to test the lighting for their TV makeup.

The opening of the conference will be the first live coast-to-coast TV program. . . the entry on the log reads "President Truman, sustaining."

But the Democrats feel that he is still a hot commercial property for renewal next Fall.

Anyway, there is some thought that the Soviet may attempt to sabotage the peace meeting but that could be easily averted. In our community when a heckler attempts to disrupt the town meeting he is removed and the meeting goes on.

MARCH OF EVENTS
Korean Armistice Could Save $5 to $10 Billion That's Combat Consumption Cost Currently Per Year

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Despite the Defense department's insistence that an armistice in Korea will make no difference in the United States military buildup, the fact is that a lot of dollars have been riding on the negotiations at Kaesong. If the armistice comes through, here are some of the things that will happen:

The Army will shelve a request for at least $6 or $7 billion in supplemental funds that would have been submitted to Congress if the fighting had continued.

The Air Force will stretch what it now calls a nine-month building program to cover 12 months, at a "book" saving of between $3 and $4 billion dollars.

All three services will be saved what are called "combat consumption" costs running between $5 and $10 billion a year. Altogether between $15 and $20 billion are involved, even if there is no change in the size of the armed forces, or their equipment goals.

Miss Mary Virginia Crites
Becomes Bride Of Robert C.
Sears In Lutheran Church

Make Wedding
Trip To Bermuda

Before an altar, glowing with candlelight and banked with ivy leaves, white gladioli and chrysanthemums, Miss Mary Virginia Crites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meinhardt M. Crites of West Franklin street, became the bride of Robert C. Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sears of Cuyahoga Falls.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fred Holtfreter at 11:30 a. m., Aug. 29, in St. Luke's Lutheran church in Columbus, preceded by a program of nuptial music played at the organ by Mrs. Fred Holtfreter.

For her wedding, the former Miss Crites was wearing a ballerina length gown of imported chantilly lace over bridal satin, heavily beaded with pearls, and a shoulder length veil of silk illusion which fell from a coronet of the same lace. She was wearing the traditional bracelet of the Alpha Phi sorority of which she is alumni president and carrying a white prayer book topped with four white orchids from which fell satin streamers intertwined with frezias.

The matron of honor, Mrs. David Sands of Columbus, a sorority sister of the bride, wore a gown of rich green taffeta and carried a sheaf of pink gladioli arranged with ivy leaves.

Following the ceremony a bridal luncheon was served in the Crystal Room of Fort Hayes hotel to members of both families and a few close friends.

The bride changed to a black linen suit, accented with velvet and white accessories for a wedding trip by airliner to Chicago and Bermuda. She was wearing a corsage of her bridal orchids.

The new Mrs. Sears was graduated by Circleville high school and from Ohio State university with the class of 1948. The bridegroom attended Cuyahoga Falls high school and is also a graduate of Ohio State university where he was vice-president of his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

On their return, after three weeks in Bermuda, the couple will reside in their newly furnished home in Cuyahoga Falls where the bridegroom is associated with his father in an establishment specializing in interior decorating and home furnishings.

With Open House

Miss Mary Etta Kramer of Ringgold and John O. Wertman of Leisville were married August 23, 1901 by the Rev. A. E. Athey and celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday in their home, Circleville Route 4, with an open house.

Approximately 50 guests called to offer congratulations including their three children, Chester Wertman of Stoutsville, Mrs. Mary Frances Bossert of Columbus and Curtis H. Wertman of Seyfert avenue. The oldest guest attending was Mrs. Caroline Ward of East Main street, an aunt of Mrs. Wertman's and the youngest, their great granddaughter, Linda Kay Ruffe. Other guests included three granddaughters, two grandsons, Mrs. Wertman's sister, Mrs. Margaret Yantz of Lancaster, several nieces and nephews, other relatives, friends and neighbors.

The home was decorated throughout with bouquets of golden flowers, presented to them by a friend, Mrs. A. W. Bosworth. Refreshments were served by hostesses, Mrs. Curtis Wertman, Mrs. Berman Wertman, Mrs. Bossert and a granddaughter, Mrs. James Ruffe of Columbus from a table centered with a golden wedding cake and a large white cake topped by a miniature bride and groom.

For the occasion, Mrs. John Wertman was wearing an outfit of gold wool and a corsage of yellow rose buds. Her husband was wearing a lapel bouquet of the same flowers, a gift of their niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carpenter of Rockfall, Ill.

anything that might revive the "merchants of death" stigma which the committee's inquisitor, a skillful young lawyer named Alger Hiss, helped hang upon it. But the Government thought that Du Pont was the only company for the job.

Du Pont is the world's greatest chemical empire. It has 72 plants in 25 states, employs about 85,000 people, turns out 1200 different types of products, and last year chalked up $1,297,000,000 in sales. Its wizardry in its Wilmington laboratories periodically conjures up entire new industries.

DUCCO, THE first quick-drying auto finish, revolutionized U.S. automobile production. Cellophane changed the nation's packaging habits. Nylon is helping to revolutionize the textile industry. Fully 60 percent of Du Pont's sales come from products which were not known or were in limited production a quarter century ago.

The men who wrought this revolution were the Du Pont brothers, Pierre, Irene and Lamont, a rare combination of technical brains, speculative instinct and superb managerial skill.

They changed the 149-year-old company from a successful powder mill in Wilmington, Del., into a chemical cornucopia. In so doing they learned that revolutions are for young men: each served his time as Du Pont president and retired before 60.

To build the H-bomb components, the Government is counting on the safe Du Pont experts who built the $400,000,000 plutonium Hanford plant for the A-bomb. Among them, none did more than Crawford Hallock Greenwalt, who, at 48, sits in the president's chair at Du Pont.

When Du Pont took on the A-bomb job in 1942, 39-year-old Crawford Greenwalt was the $900-a-month technical director of Du Pont's Grasselli Chemical Department. A chemical engineer with knowledge of production, he seemed the ideal man to maintain liaison between the atomic scientists and Du Pont's production men.

But when Greenwalt landed at the University of Chicago, where the first atomic pile was being built, the scientists thought differently. They were suspicious of Greenwalt because he was not a nuclear physicist. Furthermore, the scientists did not want to freeze designs for Hanford. They wanted to keep on improving them. But Greenwalt knew that unless the designs were frozen there could be no mass production.

RELATIONS became so strained that one of the scientists asked Eleanor Roosevelt to warn FDR that Du Pont was sabotaging the project. Patiently and diplomatically, Greenwalt smoothed over the friction, and, like everyone else, he put in an 18-hour day. He boned up so well on nuclear physics that in six months he could talk to the scientists in their own language. They began calling him

"Greenie," his nickname at Du Pont.

When Du Pont turned the work at Hanford over to General Electric and collected its one-dollar fee (the same fee it is getting for the H-bomb project) Greenwalt went back to Wilmington, to become president in 1948.

In his wiry five-foot, ten-inch frame, Crawford Greenwalt combines energy, charm and the cold precision of a trained scientist. He can concentrate so deeply that all the furniture could be removed unnoticed. Yet, just as quickly, he can become as gregarious as a traveling salesman.

Greenwalt does not run Du Pont alone. Like an army, it has a general staff to decide broad policies and line officers to carry out the tactics. Each year Du Pont scours U.S. colleges for their ablest men, lures about 350, has gradually moved its requirements so high that Greenwalt quips: "If we had had the same system then, I couldn't have got in." But advancement for beginners can be fast. Once a man breaks ahead of his age and salary group, his name will pop up on a "skimmer chart" which Greenwalt constantly consults. That man is then moved around departments to broaden his experience.

GREENWALT came naturally by his scientific bent. His father was resident physician at Philadelphia's Girard College; his mother patented an invention for using vari-colored lighting to harmonize with the moods of music. Both parents were old friends of Wilmington's Du Ponts.

When Greenwalt was graduated from MIT—where he had been better known for his eye for pretty girls than for his scholarship—he got a $125-a-month job as chemical engineer at Du Pont. He spent his off hours courting Margaretta Du Pont (Irene's daughter), his childhood friend. In 1926 they were married.

The fact that Greenwalt married the boss's daughter did not hurt him at Du Pont, but he still had to make his own way. His work on nylon—biggest treasure yet turned up in Du Pont test tubes—put him far up on the skimmer chart.

Du Pont's brilliant scientist, Dr. Wallace Carothers, first materialized the nylon fiber, but Greenwalt's patient five-year nursing, from test tube to pilot plant, helped bring nylon to mass production in 1939.

Only two other men not of Du Pont blood and name have held the presidency since 1802, when Eleuthere Irenee Du Pont—a refugee from the French Revolution—founded the company. Amazed at the high price and low quality of gunpowder in America, Irenee bought a farm on Brandywine Creek, near Wilmington, and built Du Pont's first gunpowder mills.

FROM PRESIDENT Thomas Jefferson, who had known the family in France, came the first order for the U.S. Army. Du Pont powder has been used in every war since 1812. U.S. pioneers used Du Pont powder to clear the wilderness, build railroads, raise factories.

By 1912 the Du Ponts had built such a mighty "Powder Trust" that a federal court split it into three independent companies—Du Pont, Hercules and Atlas. Du Pont survived because the Army and Navy insisted that it keep all of the military powder business. During World War I,

Du Pont supplied 40 percent of all the powder used by the Allied powers, chalked up more than a billion dollars in sales, expanded its plant capacity 54-fold.

With World War I's windfall, the Du Ponts set to work to expand peacetime business, which soon soared far above even the war years. Nitrocellulose, used for gun cotton, led to Duco, to rayon, to cellophane. Then came nylon, which today still leads all Du Pont sales.

The Du Pont revolution is still growing. President Greenwalt himself has been testing a new suit, made of Du Pont's newest synthetic fiber, Dacron. It looks and feels like wool, but outwears it, costs only half as much, is washable and mothproof—and is virtually wrinkle-proof. The fiber, not to be in mass production until 1953, may well do to wool what nylon did to silk.

THERE IS no limit to the legend which Du Pont's wizards are constantly performing. In three years they have popped out a sulfur-coated grass seed which grows greener grass, a chemical called Erifron which makes cotton and rayon flame-resistant, and a revolutionary new insulating material called Teflon.

In a pilot plant at Wilmington, Du Pont is turning out titanium metal which competes with aluminum in lightness and with stainless steel in strength and corrosion resistance.

Du Pont spent $38,000,000 on research last year, and has recently dedicated a new $30,000,000 research center at Wilmington. "It took us ten years and $27,000,000 to bring nylon to the production stage," says Greenwalt. "But for every nylon that hits the jackpot, there are 19 failures. If we couldn't afford to carry the failures, we might miss the nylon."

Has Du Pont grown too big? The U.S. Government seems to think so. Though it relies on Du Pont's size to build the plant for H-bomb components, the Government keeps trying to cut it down by antitrust suits. Six prosecutions are still pending.

Greenwalt's answer to the charge of bigness is that Du Pont has grown big by providing the things the U.S. consumer wants. And he points out that small businesses have continued to multiply, with big companies such as Du Pont contributing to their growth. "Cellophane alone," he says, "has given rise to 300 smaller businesses that provide 40,000 jobs."

CONCENTRATION may be indispensable if it means that through a concentration of money, skill and management a job is done that otherwise would not be done.

Du Pont's own employees have such faith in the company's abilities that when Du Pont polled them on products they would most like to see developed they suggested everything from a tooth preservative to wings enabling man to fly on his own power.

Greenwalt thinks their imagination may have ranged a little far, but he points out that there are 90-odd chemical elements and that only a tiny fraction of their possible combinations has been put to commercial use. Says he: "The greatest discoveries are yet to come."

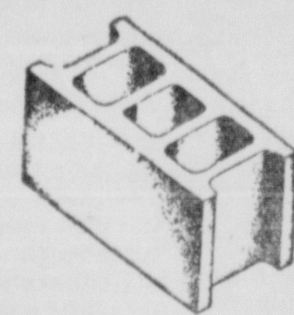

Timothy Seed Production Given

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31—The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today that timothy production of thresher-run seed was estimated at 45,000 bushels. This was two percent over last year although acreage was five percent smaller. Favorable weather resulted in high quality seed.

'SPREAD THE TAX LOAD'

Provincetown Wages War Against Heavy Taxes

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 31—Canny Yankees at the tip of historic Cape Cod, hardened by a lifelong fight against shifting sands and pounding seas, are winning another battle—against high taxes on the local front.

The high $57 per thousand tax in the town of Provincetown last year threatened to drive away the fishpacking plants, the main industry.

Re-appraisal of real estate plus a "Yankee five-year plan" for a survey of property and mapping of the town combined to boost valuations from $6 million last year to $8 million 500 thousand this year and cut the tax rate $19 to $38 a thousand for 1951.

The campaign to "spread the tax load" and its good results drew the praises of no less an authority than Massachusetts Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long, who recommended its use in other communities with similar problems.

CHAIRMAN John R. Small of the board of assessors said Prov-

Detectives Seek Phantom Gunman In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31—Los Angeles homicide detectives redoubled their search today for a murder-crazy phantom gunman they believe is on the prowl in the city's eastern fringes and who scored his first "kill" in three times Wednesday night.

His victim was Mrs. Nina Marie Bice, 25-year-old mother of three children, shot as she sat drinking coffee with a girl friend at a hot dog stand.

The fatal bullet came from an alley but no trace of the killer was found.

Police believe the same gunman wounded Mrs. Lois May Kruezer, 21, as she was telephoning from an outdoor booth last Monday and was also the one who shot through the window of a Norwalk home, narrowly missing Lloyd M. Walter.

Supporting their belief is the fact that both of the .22-calibre bullets which struck the two women were of the same type.

They hope to recover the bullet which was fired at Walter and match it with the others.

Sheriff's Detective Chief Gordon Bowers said, "It looks as if we're up against a homicidal phantom who shoots for blood-lust and then vanishes before even a glimpse of him can be caught."

Child Scalded

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 31—Dannny Allen, eight-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen of Portsmouth, playfully turned on a hot water faucet while his mother bathed him last night, scalded himself and died of burns a few hours later in a city hospital.

Salesman Blames Marriage Tangle On Head Injury

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30 — A Milwaukee salesman who admits commuting from wife to wife for four years blames all his troubles on a head injury suffered in the Army.

Thirty-three-year-old John Reihman, who has pleaded guilty to adultery, also says he wants to continue to support his two families on his monthly income of $875.

Reihman related in municipal court that he wed his first wife, Dorothy, in 1943. She has been living with their five-year-old daughter in Plymouth, Wis.

He said he married Elizabeth Nordman of Milwaukee in 1947. Elizabeth now has a three-year-old daughter and a two-month-old son.

Reihman said he traveled back and forth between the homes in the course of his business trips.

The only explanation he could offer was the injury he suffered in the services.

Reihman will learn his fate on Sept. 14 in municipal court.

Gambling Raid Nets 65 Arrests

NEWPORT, Ky., Aug. 31—Sixty-five persons were arrested en masse early today when a contingent of 52 Kentucky state police raiders swooped down on two swank northern Kentucky night spots recently highlighted in the Kefauver Crime Committee hearings.

The officers, led by Commissioner Guthrie Crowe and carrying shotguns, axes and sledge hammers, began the surprise raid at 1:12 a. m. against the Latin Quarter and Club Manana establishments on the outskirts of Newport in Kentucky's Campbell County.

sist upon as their necessities. This country cannot long measure its conduct or control its attitudes on this basis, for while this nation has a continent to defend, Great Britain hopes to save the vestiges of empire trade. The two purposes are not identical; in fact, they are in conflict. Many of our difficulties with other countries are the result of this conflict of purpose. It prevents the United States from fixing its own policy and determining the nature of its relations to other nations.

It will be interesting to see how the British handle this situation at the forthcoming San Francisco Conference.

India fears Soviet Russia and distrusts the United States. Therefore, India risks American displeasure while acting as the Russian broker. The fallacy of such a policy is obvious from the American standpoint; to an Indian it represents clever manipulation of two great powers by a small one.

Nehru can continue to pursue this course only as long as the United States does not get very angry over it. All we need to do is to adopt a pro-Pakistan attitude, withhold assistance and commercial favors from India and give them to Pakistan, and Nehru's world would collapse about his ears.

Unfortunately, such a realistic course will not be pursued by the State Department as long as Great Britain insists that Nehru should be placated lest he take India out of the British Commonwealth.

So, again, as with Nationalist China, American policy is being decided by what the British in-

Rotarians Here May Spark Scioto River Cleanup Drive

Pollution Effects Are Cited

Bulletin Raps Health Board

Cincinnati Rotary Club may soon spark a drive to promote a more satisfactory cleanup program of the Scioto River.

In a bulletin issued this week by the organization, Rotary cited that pressure from Cincinnati may be brought to bear in the capital city to hasten the cleanup program.

Here is how leading Rotarians feel about the idea:

"Many of us have visited the parks and the zoo along the river above Columbus and realize the enjoyment and recreation that would be possible if Columbus would expedite its program of sewage treatment.

"Bond issues were passed several years ago by Columbus to handle the matter but apparently we folks down here have not brought the pressure to bear to keep the matter in the foreground. State and national legislation is provided to enforce compliance with laws on stream pollution.

"OUR STATE board of health needs to be jarred into awareness that they have not kept their eyes on the ball. Members of Columbus City Council should be advised that more damage suits are coming up and that settlement for a pittance is a thing of the past.

"Public opinion can be aroused in our community to the extent that merchants and business houses in Columbus are made to realize that unless they bring pressure from within a very substantial amount of profit can be lost on business that our community can take elsewhere.

"A complete cleanup of the river could mean a revival of a canoe club of many members, boats to hire could again be a profitable venture, ducks that now avoid our section of the river would return to make hunting good again and fishing could again be enjoyed.

"Freshets that overflow our bottom lands and cover our filtering galleries with diluted filth at the pumping station could again have only rain run off to soak into the drinking water.

"Within the memory of many of us, large and small mouth bass, crappies and other game fish as well as large quantities of cat-fish were taken within sight of the Main street bridge and this could be restored.

"Our Rotary Club could logically be the spark plug for starting a united community action to hasten the return of enjoyment of fishing, hunting, and boating on the river south of Columbus."

Paraguay, South America, is one of the best irrigated countries in the world.

Powerful Odor Clears Beach

SAN JUAN, Aug. 31—Wealthy residents left swanky Las Marias Beach in Puerto Rico today to escape an odor so violent that it induces nausea and peels the paint off buildings.

There was no immediate explanation of the origin of the odor but authorities checked nearby excavations as the possible source of the corrosive element in the air which leaves houses, automobiles and furniture looking like they had been sandpapered.

Las Marias, two miles from San Juan, is a favorite resort for hundreds of wealthy families.

Five Questioned On Kidnapping

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 31—Youngstown police today are holding five men for questioning in connection with the kidnapping and raping of a 24 year old woman.

The woman told police the quintet forced her into a car at a downtown bus stop last night, drove her to a point in Trumbull County and then attacked her.

When they finally released her from the car she gave police a description of the men. The five suspects were picked up a few hours later.

Hamburger Facts Are Revealed

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—The next time a hamburger weighs heavy on the stomach, consider this:

You have just eaten some iron, copper, aluminum, chromium, lead, nickel, tin, zinc and silver along with your meat.

But the Armour Research Foundation, now engaged in a study of "trace elements" in meat, added today that it would be useless to go prospecting at the nearest sandwich counter. It takes 60 pounds of hamburger to provide 13 millionths of an ounce of silver.

Hunting Mishaps Result In Deaths

VEST, Ky., Aug. 31—Squirrel hunting accidents resulted in the deaths of two men in the Vest, Ky., area yesterday and serious injuries to a third.

John Terry, father of 10, was killed when Ernest Hall fired at a squirrel which ran between them as they stood behind trees.

Odus Farler was killed by a shot from the gun of Kenneth Bersher, a neighbor.

Bersher said he mistook the top of Farler's head for a squirrel.

Lawrence Tierney Maps Out Fight Against Sentence

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31—A fight against a 90-day jail sentence on a battery charge is being mapped today by Lawrence Tierney, the "bad boy" of the movies.

He plans to take his case to the appeals court. Tierney gave notice of appeal when the sentence was imposed by Municipal Judge Ben S. Beery yesterday for the beating of John Naylor, 28, last June 21.

Tierney, who achieved screen prominence for his portrayal of the gangster John Dillinger, told the court that in his previous scrapes with the law he had been willing to admit his guilt.

But, he asserted, he was innocent in this case and he found the sentence "difficult to accept."

The actor insisted that he was forced to fight for his life after Naylor pulled a knife on him.

New Regulations Are Announced

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31—The Columbus Office of Price Stabilization today announced new regulations covering the Christmas sales period and private clubs.

The OPS said a new period, July 1 through Dec. 10, will be the base for retail and mail order pricing charts on toys, games and Christmas decorations.
